

VOLUNTARY TAX TRANSPARENCY CODE

Computershare voluntarily publishes this information as part of its commitment to provide transparent and useful information on its tax affairs to assist in understanding Computershare's tax contribution and compliance with Australia's tax laws.

Information for the year ended 30 June 2022 is set out below.

OUR APPROACH TO TAX

Computershare is committed to meeting its tax obligations in all the countries in which it undertakes economic activity.

Computershare has a tax governance framework which has been approved by the Board. Tax falls under the oversight of the Risk and Audit Committee and tax risk is managed pursuant to documented policy. Tax expense forms part of our financial results which are reviewed regularly by management and the Board. Material tax risks are reviewed by management, Computershare's tax advisers, external auditors and the Risk and Audit Committee.

Tax is one of a broad range of commercial factors and consequences taken into account when Computershare assesses and undertakes any investment activity. Any tax planning is required to align with Computershare's commercial activities and the application of the framework and policy approved by the Board.

Computershare provides services to clients in over 20 countries. A key premise of operating share registry businesses is that public records and the maintenance of a share register ordinarily occur in the jurisdiction where Computershare's clients are registered or incorporated. Computershare's presence in particular countries is to enable the provision of our registry, custody, equity plan and related services to clients in those countries. Each revenue-generating subsidiary represents a substantial commercial presence, both in terms of physical premises and employees.

We have a strong history of compliance and of open engagement with the relevant tax authorities. This includes entering into Bilateral Advance Pricing Arrangements with the Canadian Revenue Authority (CRA), Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs (HMRC) and the Australian Taxation Office (ATO).

As an Australian headquartered company, we have created and maintained significant intellectual property in Australia which has been successfully deployed in our overseas expansion over time. Our engagement with tax authorities includes seeking to ensure that Australia receives a commercial return for the use of the intellectual property by our overseas businesses. These returns are taxable in Australia.

To the extent that Computershare generates income which is taxable in Australia, this generates franking credits which can be distributed to our shareholders. Profits from our operations overseas are taxable in the country in which they are generated. Under Australian tax law, these profits are not subject to further tax when repatriated to Australia and therefore do not generate franking credits. While unfranked dividends paid to Computershare's shareholders represent profits which have not been taxed to Computershare in Australia, they will be taxed in the hands of our shareholders when distributed, the majority of which are resident in Australia.

Excluding the impact of foreign dividends and the related tax expense impact, the Australian group's effective tax rate would be 30%.

BASIS OF PREPARATION

Computershare's accounting profit to income tax expense reconciliation is disclosed in Note 6 of the 2022 Annual Financial Report and has been externally audited. The income tax expense disclosed in the Annual Financial Report is calculated in accordance with Australian Accounting standards and represents the profit before income tax expense multiplied by the applicable corporate income tax rate of 30% adjusted for "permanent" differences. Permanent differences represent differences between income and expense recognition criteria under accounting principles and income tax legislation, including non-deductible expenses and non-assessable adjustments. Income tax expense is calculated on the basis of the tax laws enacted or substantively enacted at the end of the reporting period.

The reconciliation of income tax expense to income tax payable has been prepared by Computershare in accordance with Australian Accounting standards.

Tax contribution information has been compiled using information on actual taxes paid or collected during the financial year (i.e. on a cash basis), rather than taxes paid or collected referable to the financial year. Computershare undertakes an internal review process through its finance function to verify the disclosures made.
